Dear Ms Bruce,

I believe that children at the age of 10 and over should be trusted on the following social media for instance tiktok , instagram and many other media. My classmates (5 sunshine) and I think it is a very good way of connecting with family , friends and others online in tough times like lockdown. Please remain reading this letter as I persuade you as to why you should agree with my point of view.

Firstly , I would like to mention that social media helps boost confidence and is a good communication platform. In my point of view , social media allows you to communicate with people who live far away , make videos and gain confidence in yourself and make healthy relationships with the people online who you meet , and that can lead you to good mental health. Kids can also learn how to make things and cook on these media therefore social media can be educational.

Secondly , although there might be an age limit , as long as young kids are mature on the app parents dont need to worry about anything. To add on , Social media is a way to get rid of negative emotions and can possibly make you happy with the entertaining videos there are in these socials. Social media is an obsession to some people and that’s fine because that can make them happy which makes a result of good mental health.

To end it all off , at the end of the day social media can be very educational and can teach kids to have confidence in themselves and to talk up to people they trust such as family or friends. Additionally , kids can learn to make healthy friendships and have good mental health. Also , social media can be a few people's comforts and can encourage them. I hope my letter has persuaded you to agree with my point of kids being able to be trusted with social media platforms.

Yours sincerely , Inaaya S
